

by John Huston

This expedition project is not just about skiing unsupported to the North Pole. It is a 3-year journey with the multi-faceted challenges that include fundraising, training, networking, promoting, educating and speaking. Although much of this work is not as exciting as skiing on the ice, the people we meet and work with along the way make experience truly special. Whether lending us their support and expertise or working together in partnership, education or public outreach, these people make our small two-person expedition team feel a whole lot bigger.

Tyler and I are constantly being asked 'How can I help?' or 'How can I be a part of your project?'. We're genuinely flattered by these offers. Below is a small list of ways in which you can join our team. If you have any ideas contact us.

- Make a contribution to the expedition fundraising drive. Click here.
- Assist us in making connections:
 - Do you know people:
 - Who may identify with our values and mission. If you do please let them know about our project and encourage them to join the team.
 - Who work for companies, that may identify with our mission and values or that make products that could be used on the expedition. If so please connect them to us, as these folks may link to potential expedition partners
- Host "An evening to the North Pole" small scale fundraising event
 - Invite your friends to your home or another location with a presentation and discussion by John or Tyler as the entertainment. You provide the venue, a bit of food and drink and round up the guests, John or Tyler provides everything needed for the entertainment as well as invitations if you need them. For more information on how to set this up contact us. It's easy.